Some of my earliest memories are of sitting with my father doing stick men together on the kitchen table. That started a life long fascination with all things creative. I studied at various schools in my early years, finally deciding on a graphics career. The graphics industry was my career of over 30 years. Following two cancer diagnosis twenty three years ago, I started to get serious about my painting as a means of a legacy for my children. That quickly consumed me totally, exploring life and beauty and the everyday. Presently, I am honored to be painting and creating full time. It is my life.
